

SHADE VARIATIONS

- V1 Tiles have a generally uniform appearance with minimal production run differences among individual tiles. Some colour difference can be observed.
- V2 Tiles are similarly coloured with variation in texture and or pattern which are clearly distinguishable.
- V3 Tiles are moderately variant and although the colours and or textures present on a single tile are indicative of the colours and or textures – on another the amount of colours and or textures on each tile may vary significantly. Consequently the range should be viewed before selection and that a mock layout be made.
- V4 Tiles have substantial variance with random colour and or texture differences from tile to tile where one tile may have very different colours and or textures from another. Final installation of such tiles will be unique and should therefore be viewed before selection and a mock layout be made.

For further information and technical data please refer to the specification sheets available at www.formeceramics.com.au

